

The Food Chain Song

© 1992 by Walkin' Jim Stoltz, Walkin' Jim Music, BMI

- 1) Oh, the little butterfly, she is so neat, With her fancy wings, and her dainty feet,
Oh she flutters here and there, just like a queen, And if you saw her there, you'd know what I mean.
No one can replace her, no, no, none, She's a most special creature flyin' under the sun.

Chorus: But then you think about the food chain, And along comes a hungry crow,
And chomp, chomp, chomp, Gobble, gobble, gobble, Gulp, gulp, gulp, She's gone!

- 2) Oh, the little fawn, she is so cute, With her bambi eyes and her spotted suit,
She prances through the meadow without a care, Chasin' butterflies all through the air.
No one can replace her, no, no, none, She's the most special creature prancin' under the sun.

Chorus: But then you think about the food chain, And along comes a hungry coyote,
And chomp, chomp, etc. etc.....

- 3) Yes, he's a hiker man you can tell by his tan, He's carryin' everything that his back can stand,
He's a walkin' page out of LL Bean, And if you saw him in the woods, you'd know what I mean.
No one can replace him, no, no, none, He's a most special man because he carries a gun.

Chorus: But then you think about the food chain, And along comes a hungry grizz,
And chomp, chomp, etc. etc....

Bridge:

Fat or skinny, short or tall You don't have to worry at all,
You don't have to be, dressed in style, To get a taste, or be tasted by, the wild.

Chorus: Just think about the food chain, And along comes something bigger,
And chomp, chomp, etc. etc.
Gulp, gulp, gulp, You're gone!